Refuse Request
The trainmen, however, refused the proposition and say that the business men must turn to the road for a settlement as the trainmen will not be moved by any requests from their original demands.

CHICAGO SITUATION GETTING VERY CRITICAL AT PRESENT

Kohlsaat Walters' Strike Means a Great Deal More Than It Appears.

(Special by Scripps-McLain.)
Chicago, May 13.—Labor leaders are interested in the strike of the Kohlsaat Walters employed by the Kohlsaat restaurants and declared today they will tie up the whole city before they will let the Walters lose. This threat is due to the assertion of the employers' association that they would force union labor out of all the hotels and restaurants in the city. If the Walters don't return to work the teamsters' union, numbering 30,000, have offered to support Walters by refusing to haul goods to the bakeries and lunch rooms. Its officers declared if the employers' association did not withdraw its aid from Kohlsaat company the entire union will go out on a strike against all the members of the employers' association. The situation is becoming so great here Governor Yates today sent the entire state board of arbitration to the city. Almost twenty-five thousand workers are now out on strike. Unrest is growing; eight hundred blacksmiths employed by the Rock Island and North-Western roads quit today; radical labor leaders say if the troubles are not settled soon a hundred and fifty thousand men will be out before summer is over.

WORK AT THE POST FACTORY

Has Again Started Up—Two Big Presses Are Now in Use.

The Cement Post factory has now about sixty men on its pay roll and is increasing the force almost daily, after having partially shut down on account of changes and repairs.

One of their latest machines is a device for twisting two wires. In the center of each finished cement post are three lengths of these wires. These add greatly to the strength and lasting properties of the post. In this machine the two separate wires are run in at one end of the instrument and are thrown out at the other end, twisted together and cut into the proper lengths.

Heavy galvanized wire is used and is run through the machine very rapidly. These machines were invented for use of the factory by an Illinois firm.

Two Presses
The company is now running two of the four immense hydraulic presses, which singly exert a pressure of 150 tons on each part, when it is soft in the mold. The regular capacity of the four presses is 2,500 posts daily. The present output is in the neighborhood of 1100 per day.

Another Addition

BELOIT DOWNS ITS OPPONENTS

Appleton University Nine Was Barely Saved from a Shutout by College Men.

Coach Ed. Merrill's baseball team from Lawrence university fell before Capt. Allen Merrill's Beloit college nine yesterday by a score of 12 to 1. Moorehouse's error, which was excusable, and Vogelsburg's failure to field quickly in the eighth alone saved Lawrence a shutout. Morey started in to pitch, but twelve men faced him in four innings, six striking out. Clark replaced him in the fifth, and the only hit made off him came in the eighth. Beloit had had luck in hitting. Score:

Beloit 1 0 0 0 3 1 0 3-12

NEW METHOD IN MANUAL TRAINING

One Hundred and Fifty Lantern Slides Are Made Ready for That Department.

A cumulative series of lantern slides of manual training subjects for use in class lectures is being started in the high school this year under the direction of G. M. Brace. The slides will be used this year, some one hundred and fifty in all, to illustrate the theories which will be delivered by the graduating members of the department. They are now being prepared by Mr. Brace from drawings and blue prints made by the young men who will handle the subjects.

No lantern slides have ever been employed as an aid in teaching manual training, but Mr. Brace has keenly realized the advantage which they would be, and has hit upon this method of securing a constantly growing collection of slides, which will be added to by each graduating class if the custom this year is continued.

LETTER ABOUT MEXICAN TRIP

JANESVILLE MAN WRITES ABOUT INTERESTING SIGHTS.

DEVELOPMENT NOW NEEDED

Many Views from the Car Windows Disclose Condition of Affairs.

Mexico, May 10.—We started from Chicago the fifth and arrived in St. Louis the same evening via the C. & Alton. The party consisted of four E. F. Carpenter, F. C. Hutson of Janesville; A. L. Witter, Delavan, and W. Homer Lee of Beloit. We noted the gradual change increase in vegetation and timber as we hurried through Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and N. E. Texas. Plenty of pine saw mills, negroes and flowers all through the latter two localities. Especially in Texas I noticed so many such large peach orchards, which were past blooming a month ago. For miles and miles in N. E. Texas there is one almost unbroken expanse of timber then of vast land about San Antonio and one wonders what possible value could exist on these lands.

We had two hours in San Antonio and visited the Alamo where Davie Crockett and Gen. Houston took their final stand with the Texans. It was built in 1718. The Cathedral is a large stone structure part of which is over years old. San Antonio has a population of over 75,000 electric cars, water works, Mexicans and other improvements. The next point of interest was Laredo, Texas, with its low Mexican huts and straw thatched shanties, its narrow streets its population is about 11,000. It has some very fair buildings and even a department store. Laredo is the place to change your money to Mexican at $2.50 to 2.35. We crossed the Rio Grande to Meva Laredo where we were held up and our baggage searched by Mexican custom officers who gave us the pink plaster on our grips. To insure us against further trouble.

Then began a long journey of 50 miles to Mexico City. We rise rapidly in elevation from sea level at Laredo to 7,000 feet at Camaras then descend a little after which we rise to 10,500 feet near Mexico City. The general characteristics of the country as far as San Luis Potosi, are sand cactus and mountains abounding in precious ore, much of which we saw in piles and bags at every station. The people are mostly Mexicans with all of the squalor of fifth in looks and odor as they throng the train on both sides, the women and children begging for "Usrdaloin taneta con cent tal vee ta one cent."

Some of the towns have walled in closures the adobe huts inside. The mining country is the most profitable through here as the level land is barren. Our next letter will deal with Mexico City and its sights.

A Remarkable Sale

The Gazette advertising solicitor a few days ago was handed a cake of soap to try by the Badger Drug company, which he reported of remarkable fragrance and purity.

Upon inquiring we were informed that it was the Violet de Parme soap, well known for its purity, and advertised by the large department stores in Chicago at 17c per cake, regular price 25c. Therefore, we were indeed astonished to learn that the Badger Drug company intends to sell this soap next Saturday at 8c per soap at 8c.

Mr. Plennig of the Badger Drug company states that they intend to celebrate their first anniversary next Saturday, therefore, they will give to each one of their friends and customers one cake of the celebrated cake at 8c.

Don't miss this sale which is for one day only.

The Hastings Stock Co., will be the next attraction at the Myers Gran opera house for three nights, this week. The cast, composed of fifteen people is headed by Miss May Hastings, the well known leading lady and Mr. Walter Thompson, a sterling young actor of the romantic school. The opening bill will be a "Domestic Blizzard" and during the action of the play, Miss May Hastings will introduce her famous dancing specialty which has won her a world wide reputation both in this country and in Europe. Careful attention has been paid to the scenic environment which is adequate to the production, and taking it all in all, a "Domestic Blizzard" should meet with a hearty reception and a big house.

There is said to be a pronounced educational value in Elie Elster's production of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," wholly outside that drama's merits as a play. The costumes reflect the fashions of a time when the House of Tudor and the English court had reached a stage of amazing splendor. They were made after designs obtained from rare plates in the British museum and other treasure houses of English history. The scenery was painted after sketches prepared at Windsor Park, Greenwich Palace and Hampton court. These sketches were then modified in such a manner as to make the scene reflect as accurately as investigation into books would make possible, the appearance of the localities during the opening years of the sixteenth century. Much of the furniture was designed from models now on view in Hampton court, that vast palace which Thomas Wolsey, who figures in "Knighthood," built and presented to Henry VIII, brother of the Princess Mary Tudor, whom Miss Elster portrays.

Al H. Wilson

"A Prince of Tatters" a new romantic comedy written by Sidney R. Ellis to fit the genius of Al H. Wilson, will be under the direction of Chas. H. Yale and Shiley A. Ellis, the third consecutive year of their management of this sterling attraction.

Al H. Wilson will be seen in the role of Prince Hugo Von Reppert, who is an impoverished and exiled Austrian who comes to America in search of his wife, who came over with her uncle and guardian Earl Richard Bellemont, who is the governor of Fort George, where the action of the play occurs. The scene is laid in old New York in 1700, and affords ample scope for picturesque costuming, handsome stage effects and strong acting.

LAW DECISIONS FOR LAYMEN

Recent Court Rulings Will Interest the Busy Reader Very Much.

Oral Land Contracts—Part Payment. A contract for the sale of land, to be valid, must be in writing.

An agent entered and signed a contract for the sale of land without written authority from his principal, and received from the purchaser a small check, made out to the principal and bearing a subsequent date to that of the contract. This check the agent attached to the contract and forwarded it to the principal, who endorsed it and retained the money. Held, that the check did not constitute part of the contract, so as to make it binding when indorsed by the principal. 34 Southern Rep. (Alabama Judge Tyson 31).

Breach of Contract—Bride's Trousseau. Damages are recoverable for deprivation of intellectual enjoyment and for mental suffering, resulting from the breach of a contract.

In computing such damages for a contract of a fashionable milliner to furnish the dresses for the trousseau of a bride of a wealthy and high social standing, the court will take into consideration not alone the disappointment of the bride in not having the dresses in time for the wedding, and her mortification and humiliation in going to her husband unprovided with a suitable trousseau, but also the fact that entertainments had been planned in her honor on her wedding tour, and at her arrival at the home of her husband, which entertainments she would have to forego for want of the dresses. 34 Southern Rep. (Ill. Judge Provosty) 68.

Telegrams—Failure to Deliver. The relations between a wife and her husband's uncle was not so remote as to preclude her recovering damages for mental anguish caused by the failure of a telegram company to deliver to the uncle a telegram sent by her announcing her husband's death. It appearing that the uncle had stood in the place of a parent to both husband and wife. 43 Southern Rep. (North Carolina, Judge Walker) 841.

Sleeping Cars—Loss of Goods. A passenger who occupies the smoking department of a sleeping car, under a special arrangement with the porter in charge of the car, and who retires for the night with knowledge that one of the windows of the compartment is open, is not guilty of contributory negligence which will preclude his recovery for the loss of his personal belongings, unless the window was left open at his request. And even if the window was left open at his request, he will not be precluded from recovery unless his property was stolen by a stranger, through the window, from the outside. 73 Southwestern Rep. (Missouri, Judge Smith) 282.

Intoxicating Liquors—Illegal Sale. Where a clerk of a registered pharmacist was directed by his employer, who was present at the time, to deliver intoxicating liquor to a customer, on a physician's prescription, a sale so made was a sale by the pharmacist, and the clerk was not liable to a prosecution therefor. 73 Southwestern Rep. (Missouri, Judge Goode) 297.

WAITERS' UNION GETS INJUNCTION

Business Men Are Alleged to Be Members of an Organization to Injure Trade Unionists and Those Who Employ Them.

Omaha, May 12.—Strikers have turned the injunction tables on the employers with a vengeance. For possibly the first time in the history of the country an injunction was secured against business men during the progress of a strike.

The waiters' union filed a complaint with Judge Dickinson in the District court, in which it was alleged that the Business Men's association of this city is a local branch of the national organization, and that its purpose is the annihilation of organized labor by unfair and unlawful means. Pending the hearing of the case Judge Dickinson granted a restraining order enjoining the members of the Business Men's association from carrying on a campaign against the unions in the manner in which it was charged.

Affects Fifty Employers.

About fifty individual proprietors of concerns whose business comes in contact with the strike are affected. The injunction is granted at the request of the waiters' union and is calculated to place the employers in a position almost identical with that of the strikers—one of defense. The order is being served on the persons against whom it is directed. While it concerns directly only the waiters' union it is really intended to serve as a guide to the future action of all the other unions whose members are on strike.

The situation is a most serious one. Nearly 3,300 men are on strike or locked out, and a large number of business establishments, including eighteen laundries, are closed. The business of the city is almost at a standstill.

The decision is more peculiar because of the fact that three District court judges enjoined the waiters' union from all acts tending to hamper the business of the restaurant proprietors.

Summary of Injunction.

The summary of the injunction is as follows: First—From in any manner threatening to injure the business or person of any employer or members of the complainants' union or member of a labor union, or any person who may employ or desire to employ such union men, or from refusing to sell commodities and supplies of merchandise to employers of such union labor and from discriminating against such persons in the prices charged for any such commodities.

Second—From threatening or intimidating in any manner any person into joining the said Business Men's association or any organizations to join labor unions.

Third—From threatening or intimidating any person who may have become a member of said association or organization if he employs organized labor or recognizes labor unions into discontinuing such employment.

Must Not Fine Members.

Fourth—From imposing any fines upon its members or any person for violating any agreement not to employ organized labor or not to recognize a labor union.

Fifth—From receiving or paying out any money whatever in pursuance of any agreement to break up labor unions except attorneys in this section.

Sixth—From paying or offering any money to officers or members of unions directly or indirectly as a bribe to do or not to do any act in pursuance of any agreement or any of said defendants against such unions.

Seventh—From imposing or engaging agents or servants to import any laborers into the city of Omaha or state of Nebraska in pursuance of any existing plan to destroy labor organizations or under any similar, or new arrangement, or plan.

Enjoins Injunctions.

Eighth—From bringing any other injunction suits or actions in pursuance of any general plan of prosecutions to break up labor unions or of any new or similar plans connected directly or indirectly with any existing plans.

The injunction is the result of a cross complaint filed as part of the suit of the restaurant proprietors against the union, and the writ is made returnable the same day, May 23. The cross complaint was directed against not only the owners of hotels and restaurants, but against the persons who brought the injunction proceedings against the teamsters' union in the federal court, which includes the proprietors of all transfer companies and a number of wholesale houses.

"Why, my dear they just insist on us having a referendum when gracious knows we have not worn such a thing in twenty years. Every stamp gives the name of the person whose portrait adorns it and the years of their birth and death. Frames, including the portrait are different for every denomination.

One of the most interesting of the new American postage stamps called "Series 1902" although not completed is the 12-cent stamp, recently issued, and bearing the portrait of Benjamin Harrison. This is the first of that denomination issued by the United States government, and was included to supply the needed for a stamp that would cover single postage to foreign countries with the fee for registering the letter.

The color of the stamp is slate, and the design includes the portrait of President Harrison surrounded by an artistic frame.

The only stamp of odd denomination issued by the United States government in former years was the 7-cent stamp, included in the regular issues of 1870-1880, and in some of the department series during that decade.

The series of 1902 will include fifteen stamps, only seven of which have yet been issued, including the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8 and 12-cent stamps; there will also be stamps of 6, 10, 15 and 50 cents, $1, $2 and $5 and a special delivery stamp of a new pattern.

The colors and portraits selected for this series are as follows:

Where Spruce Gum is Made.

Not until the gum gatherers of the country had formed a union did the many patrons of the spruce, peach, plum and other appetizing confection realize the existence of gum harvesting as a special calling, says the New York Post. It would appear from the organization that thousands of men, women and children make a good livelihood from extracting gum from the trees. It is not a business easily learned, either, the best workers being those who have a knowledge of the proper condition of the trees, tapping those which are ripe with gum, while not injuring immature or barren ones.

The gum gatherers say that there trade is growing harder each year on account of the pulp mills and other industries which "eat" up the trees for their uses and thus destroy members of the spruce and other families that make the gum harvest. They are obliged to travel great distances to glean their gum products and the black spruce trees, chief of gum producers, are growing scarcer and scarcer each season. They want higher wages and the price of gum raised.

"Some of our best gum costs us around 60 cents a pound," said a manufacturer, "but we can afford to pay it. We make it up into small bars or squares with other mixtures and get 5 cents apiece for them. The medicinal gums, of course, are more expensive, but customers expect them to be and we have no trouble in disposing of them."

"The old Indian guides and hunters gathered the best gum. They seem to know by instinct where and how to find it and have a way of preparing and packing it which makes it exceedingly palatable. I fancy the best spruce gum comes from the region of Moosehead lake, Twin dam, Square lake and Katahdin in Maine."

and asked him to buy some things, which he had carved from wood on his last voyage across the Pacific. He was ragged, hairy, hungry and altogether a terrible specimen.

"Where have you been?" asked the showman.

"Been to Borneo," answered the sailor.

"Well, you look it! Come in and sit down. We are just going to have supper."

"The sailor did come in, and after the meal begged Barnum to lock him up in a cage, a cage with iron bars that he might refrain from drinking. Thus was the Wild Man of Borneo conceived, and every one who attended a Barnum show remembers what an object of interest he was to the small boys."

"It came about through Mr. Barnum's love for temperance, and his great kindness of heart," said the poet, in telling the story recently to a New York Tribune writer. "An old sailor who had been everywhere and seen everything came to Barnum one afternoon in Bridgeport, Conn.,

THE FRIEND OF THE NEWSPAPER DEFINED

The Stubbins Morton of the Department of Agriculture, was by training a newspaper man. Long ago, in Wilbur Story's day, and when the Chicago Times was a power and they used to arrest its publisher for treason, Morton wrote editorials for that imprint. Perchance it was thus he cultivated that profound taste for combat. Morton had the true Wilbur Story notion of how a paper should be conducted. Said the ill-used Peter Teazel: "Sir Oliver, we live in a damned wicked world, and the fewer we praise, the better." That was the Wilbur Story thought, that too, was Morton's.

Long ago the latter set forth the cardinal of proper newspaper control; as he understood them in an after-dinner speech. He was called upon to respond to the toast, "The Friend of the Newspaper" a sentiment supposed at that time to conceal within itself a compliment for the guest of honor at the dinner table and who may be supposed to have been a gentleman having charge of the public advertising for the city of Chicago. Morton went to his point with a clear directness.

"I am called on," he said, "to speak to the toast, 'The friend of the Newspaper.' What is the friend of the newspaper? The friend of a newspaper is the man who wants you to leave out something you ought to put in, or to put in something you ought to leave out. Friendship to a newspaper, is a disaster to a newspaper, friendship gets between the newspapers feet, trips it, and over it goes on its nose. To succeed with a newspaper it is only required that you interest folk; you do that even more thoroughly when you kick a man into the gutter than when you help him out. My own thought is that for the best interests of his paper, your wise publisher will list his enemies as an asset and his friends as a liability."—Saturday Evening Post.

This plain statement of Mr. Morton's may seem a little overdrawn, and yet there are some conditions surrounding the publishing business that are peculiar, and unlike the environments of other business.

The public involuntarily assumes a feeling of proprietorship in the paper that they patronize continuously, and the public is so complex in make-up that it is not at all surprising that this imagined ownership is sometimes overestimated.

It is nothing out of the ordinary for a publisher to be reminded by a friend, that if he was running the paper, he would do certain things that would revolutionize the city or consign individuals to everlasting contempt.

The publisher makes due allowance for this sort of voluntary advice and attempts to pursue the even tenor of his way.

There is another class of people, who are inspired by the notion that the mission of a paper is to air grievances, they want to get even with somebody, and imagine that the paper will be glad to help them out, forgetful of the fact that while a man may call another a liar, or denounce him as dishonest, that when a paper indulges in that sort of amusement, that it invites libel, however much truth there may be in the statement.

The mission of the newspaper is to record the news impartially, and without color or bias. It has no right to entertain prejudice of any kind and it is not expected to express opinion on any topic in the news columns.

It carries a record of marriages and deaths in every issue, and touches the finer sensibilities more closely than any other line of business. If the representative of a party, it speaks for the party and is expected to represent party sentiment. If at all enterprising, it is interested in public and private welfare and does not hesitate to go to the front. If moral obligations are appreciated, the paper will be found on the right side of moral questions.

The reflex influence of public sentiment is the only barometer upon which the paper can rely with a certainty. If it attempts to defy public sentiment, the error is soon discovered, and if its policy meets with approval the business office is not long finding it out. The best friends of a paper are the people who patronize it year after year, making charitable allowance for its shortcomings.

NOT A "DISTURBER"

If Senator Whitehead possessed any true republican principles when he was a candidate for the gubernatorial chair he left them all at home when he went to Madison this winter as the senatorial representative of the republicans of Rock county. His business in the senate was to create a disturbance, and he has succeeded admirably.—Soldier's Grove Advance.

While the Sentinel is not authorized to speak for State Senator Whitehead, it feels confident that that gentleman will be no more swayed from the course he now believes to be right than he was when the vicious personal assaults were made upon him last year, and in this position he is ably seconded by every conservative member of the legislature. It must be remembered that Senator Whitehead has not sought political preferment; that he has never appeared as champion of revolutionary changes in our system of government or in the administration of our laws, that he has never written, printed, or uttered one word in criticism of the personal character or motives of other public men, that he has never "played to the galleries" after the manner of the politician, but that he has contributed materially to the sum total of work that has aided in reducing crude theories on the subject of taxation to a workable system which has been presented to the legislature for enactment into the statute law.

The paragraph from the Soldier's Grove paper at the beginning of this article is not selected because of its special merit or because its origin gives it force or dignity apart from its inherent worth or worthlessness as the case may be. It is merely quoted as an illustration to the character of the too numerous and too apparently prejudiced criticisms of the senate leader, to be found in the columns of factional newspapers. So far from being a disturber, Senator Whitehead has done what he could to harmonize differences of opinion, and to enact legislation that would advance the cause of taxation reform.

The action of the state senate under the leadership of Senator Whitehead on the primary election issue, was a distinct concession to the advocates of the radical measure proposed by the assembly committee. Having given unanswerable reasons for believing that the primary election bill which was defeated two years ago, was essentially illogical, and vicious in its tendencies, Senator Whitehead and his fellow conservatives in that body voted in favor of a similar bill with the sole condition that certain of its provisions shall receive the endorsement of the people before they go into effect. This was certainly not the work of a "disturber." It was more of a concession than the reformers had a right to ask.

In all matters relating to the reform of the taxation system Senator Whitehead and his associates have followed the lead of the tax commission. The credit exemption bill was drawn by the tax commission and received the support of the conservative senators. The ad valorem railroad taxation bill was prepared by the tax commission. It was examined sentence by sentence by Senator Whitehead's committee, working with the tax commissioners, and when it was finally completed it received the unanimous support of both the committee members and the tax commissioners. It was then brought up in the senate and passed Senator Whitehead and the other conservative members of that body voting in favor of the measure. This is not the way "disturbers" work.

No man in recent years who did not seek to intrude his personality into public affairs has been more severely and unjustly criticized than Senator Whitehead and no public man has taken criticism with more philosophical patience than he. All he has ever asked is to be permitted to do his work as a representative in his district in the manner best calculated to bring good results. It will be noticed that he has never sought public notice, that he has never indulged in self glorification, that he has for several months made no use of the public press, either in inter views or letters. For more than two years he has devoted his time and talents to the attempt to solve the problems involved in the proposed change of taxation laws, and those problems are many and difficult. This is not the record of a "disturber."

To the tax commission and Senator Whitehead in particular, and to the conservative senators who have so ably and consistently supported them during the present session of the legislature in general, the people of Wisconsin owe a debt of gratitude. In their efforts to carry forward the work of perfecting our system of making assessments and collecting taxes for a time are defeated by the quibbling, hair-splitting opposition—the people will owe another kind of debt to those who represent that opposition—a debt that will be promptly paid, the moment its true character is recognized.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

Henry Clews closes his New York financial letter with the following statements:
Abroad the financial situation shows distinctive improvement, a better tone being observed in London, Paris and Berlin. Whether this will result in a larger foreign demand for Americans or not cannot be foretold, but Europe is bare of our stocks and not in a position to weaken this market selling.

At home the situation has its good and its bad features. Financial conditions are steadily improving, owing to recent heavy liquidation and the continued policy of conservatism in banking circles. Our railroads are still taxed to the utmost with traffic. The crop situation too, is fairly promising, a big winter wheat crop being practically certain, and no drawbacks at present except the lateness of corn and cotton, which increases the danger of injury by frost at the end of the season. Industry is active but employers are often hampered by the growing aggressiveness of labor leaders, which threatens a setback to business more than any other element today. Merchants report a large consumptive demand for nearly all classes of merchandise, yet high prices and diminishing rates of profit in many markets are already checking buying operations and forcing a spirit of caution. This seems likely to continue and to culminate in more or less contraction, unless some recession in merchandise values is obtained. Moderate reactions would no doubt bring in many fresh orders and infuse fresh life into business.

New York bank deposits have declined $22,000,000 during the past four years, while Chicago shows an increase of $30,000,000 covering the same period. This is due to the fact that the west is developing rapidly and western banks are keeping pace with the procession. Boston shows a decline of $15,000,000. While Kansas City has an increase of $10,000,000.

Chicago seems to be the storm center of labor disturbances. Strikes are spreading in all directions and men who are willing to work are not permitted to do so. The only curial for this sort of a trust is a soup house era. Work and money are too plenty to be appreciated.

The ad valorem bill will become a law, and the question of bond taxation will be settled by the courts. The railroads do not object to the system, but they did object to the commission that had already passed judgment in the case.

A local druggist recently had a partition put in his store. When he undertook to prime it he was notified to stop unless he could produce a union card. The freedom of the country is becoming oppressive.

In another column will be found an editorial from the Milwaukee Sentinel, endorsing Senator Whitehead. It will be read with interest by his many friends in Janesville.

Prof. Watt will find it difficult to ignore Shakespeare's reputation. The old gentleman has been dead too long.

Grover Cleveland says he is happy in his home. Why not let him continue.

The Michigan professor is still giving speaking lessons.

PRESS COMMENT

Milwaukee Journal: It is amazing the way the Stalwart papers are heap ing personal abuse on Governor La Follette. A winner is generally generous towards an opponent, and if the defeat of the rate commission bill by the assembly was such an all-round victory, how are we to account for the bitterness of the Stalwart press?

Eau Claire Leader: The necessity for "great quantities of timber for rail way ties emphasizes the advisability of preserving the forests. It has been ascertained that each mile the 250,000 miles of railway in the United States requires 400 ties per year. It takes fifty years to grow a tree that will make three ties and ordinarily requires twenty-five acres to furnish 400 ties.

Waupun Leader: The governor's special message said, "We are making records that will stand for all time in the legislative history of the state." Well, maybe the governor and the legislature are satisfied enough with the record to let it stand, but to a man up in a tree it seems as if the kindest thing that could be done for the history of the state would be to have this session blotted out.

Milwaukee News: In insisting that local governments shall control their own revenues, Governor La Follette is entitled to commendation and support from all parties. It is a correct principle, and one that is vital to local self-government.

Neenah Times: Kaukauna is debating over the question of accepting or rejecting an offer from Carnegie of $10,000 for a public library. If Kaukauna looks upon the gift as an insult, it better pocket it. Better towns than Kaukauna have clutched for Carnegie's gifts.

Racine Journal: With a state primary election law and the present system in vogue of the whole force of the state employees playing for thing is so changed no interference is possible, no primary bill should pass.

Appleton Post: The nationalizing of railroads would be a long step towards the revolutionizing not only the structure of society but of government itself. The theory that the state should be everything and the individual nothing would, in our opinion, if exemplified, reverse the law of human progress.

HAND-MADE PHILOSOPHY.

Ambition is the desire to convince other people that you can do what you are morally sure you cannot accomplish.

Ambition, furthermore, is the universal wish to be what we are not.

The thin man has an ambition to be fat, and the fat man has an irresistible yearning to be thin.

The mild man wants other people to accept his theory that in rage he could be a roaring lion and the bluffer wants those who know him to think that he is by nature as lamblike as he really is.

So far as that goes, there are few people who are what they think they are, and many of us do not scale up to what other people think we are, which generally is about 50 per cent below our own estimate.

Again, there are some people who are not even what they think they are not, and there are still others who are not what other people think they are not.

Human nature is a complicated thing, and ambition makes it more so.

Cold English Homes.

An American woman in London writes: "I have said that I am at a loss to know whether the lack of heat in English homes and business buildings is caused by hardness or stinginess. I used to think the latter till I found numerous delightful English friends objected to my own heated home. Actually some of them 'cut' me every winter so far as calling on me is concerned, because they say my rooms are too 'stuffy and hot.'"

GOOD PROGRAM FOR DENTISTS

THIRTY-SIX PAPERS AND CLINICS ARE PLANNED.

IT TAKES PLACE NEXT WEEK

Local Members of the Profession Are Busy in Preparing for Coming Event.

A rich program is in store for the members of the dental fraternity who attend the meetings of this city next Wednesday and Thursday. The occasion is the ninth annual meeting of the Southern Wisconsin Dental association. The assembly room of the city hall will be the scene of the addresses and clinics. On the list of speakers there are fifteen who will deliver papers and twenty-one who will conduct clinics.

A Fine Program
Leading men of the profession, some of them living at considerable distance, will be present, including a number of men who rank at the head in special branches. The geographical list includes Sheboygan, Baraboo, Madison, Clear Lake, Ia., Chicago, Milwaukee, Rockford, New York city, and other cities. The morning sessions on both days will be devoted to clinics and the afternoon to papers. On Wednesday evening, the only evening meeting, two lectures will be delivered, the speakers being E. S. Talbot of Chicago and F. H. Berry of Milwaukee. They will both illustrate their work with lantern slides.

Local Men Interested
Drs. R. R. Powell, L. L. Leslie, and I. M. Holsapple are the local committee. Drs. R. J. Hart and C. T. Pierce are speakers of the executive committee in charge of the program. C. T. Pierce, as master of clinics, is securing a number of subjects who will be made use of in the clinics. Drs. Leslie and Holsapple will both give table clinics.

NEW SALVATION ARMY LEADER TAKES CHARGE

Captain Brown and His Wife Have Been Assigned Here From Beloit to Take Charge.

Captain Brown and his wife have arrived in the city to take charge of the Salvation Army work, succeeding Captain Munroe, who is ordered to Marquette, Mich.

Captain Brown has been for the last nine months stationed at Beloit and reports that the work done there has been wonderful. Fully two hundred conversions having been made during that time.

In speaking of Janesville and prospective work he says that he expects to leave the Salvation forces here in much better shape than when he came. He thinks there is much to be done and will start in with a vim to do it. He appears to be very much in earnest in his work and his long stay at Beloit shows he is well thought of by his fellow workers.

The usual time of residence is three to six months, while he was in the Line City nearly a year. Tomorrow evening Captain Miltmore, a musical man of some prominence in Army circles, will be in the city and speak and sing at the Salvation Army hall.

Ordinance in Effect: With the publication of the new city ordinance, which appears in this paper tonight it goes into effect. Hereafter all trenches or holes dug in any streets of the city must be filled with water before being filled. This is required under the theory that the street will be left in better condition, and be less liable to settle than if the replaced earth were tamped dry.

CRUSHER PLANT IS INVESTIGATED

It Needs Repair, But Is a Very Good Paying Proposition for the City.

City Clerk Badger has written to various cities to learn at what cost crushed stone for paving purposes could be furnished in case it should be decided to discontinue operations at the crusher plant as advocated by several of the aldermen.

Replies which he has received from Waukesha give the approximate cost F. O. B. on cars at Janesville at slightly over two dollars, as against the fifty cents per cubic yard which has been charged for crushed stone from the city plant.

Mr. Badger also learned that crushed granite from Montello for top dressing could be obtained for about $2.75 a cubic yard.

Several of the city fathers have visited the plant in preparation for the meeting next Monday, and they express themselves surprised to learn how much of an equipment the city owns, and incidentally in what a condition of disrepair it is.

The five-year lease with Mr. Barron expires June 20, 1904, with the privilege of a five-year renewal if desired.

NEWS OF A PERSONAL NATURE

W. A. Rowell of Beloit was here today.

P. J. Mount and daughter, Miss Millan, were passengers on the morning train to Chicago.

Miss Harriet Hoyt, formerly a teacher in this city, was here yesterday en route to Madison. She is now in the university of Iowa.

E. F. Connors has returned from a trip to Port Arthur, Texas, where he looked after property interests.

Beloit Is Up Against It: Laboring men in the city from Beloit said this morning that that city is in a state of mill panic among the workmen. The men of anti-union sentiment are afraid to make any demonstration and fear for their families if they are forced to remain inactive by a protracted strike, such as is threatened.

Toten Talks.

Those who attended the Boston animal show in connection with the Elias Carnival last August will remember "Tom," the snaky leopard, who caused Senator Arnold, the trainer so much trouble. When the animals were grouped on pedestals, "Tom" was always last to take his place, and growled ominously at the side of the stage, and never failed to protest threateningly whenever he was called upon to do his turn.

Arnold was able to control him, but not without injury to himself. At the time he was her, Arnold was nursing a hideous gash in his breast the result of a sudden leap made by "Tom" at Tiffin, Ohio, the week before.

Harry Stevenson, the business representative of the Hastings company which plays here at the Myers brand the last three days of this week, was manager of the Boston show at that time. When Stevenson was in Jamesville yesterday the city recalled many reminiscences of the animal show, which, by the way, he is to join again in about two weeks. "First and last," said Stevenson, "one other man and myself were the only persons connected with the attraction who were not sufferers from Tom's claws. Madame Jarlow, the trainer, was badly scratched, one day when she got close enough to the cage for him to grab her by the dress. He scarred her back in several places and ruined a gown that cost a couple of hundred and a half over."

"Not a property man but bears a few scars of Tom's infliction. Now and then one of the boys would squeeze a little close to his cage, and unless some one was near at hand to drive the leopard off, the rule's signature was on some part of the unfortunate's anatomy. At Toronto, where we went three weeks after leaving Jamesville, Tom nearly killed a woman, and a suit for ten thousand dollars is still pending against the company in the Canadian courts. The show was playing at the Toronto exposition, the biggest animal fair in Canada. A few yards back of our tent were the barracks here some of the property men used to go for a glass of beer."

"One evening, the company went to supper together, putting a sign at the door of the tent and one property man on guard. Before long he became thirsty, and slipped off to the barracks. A woman came to the tent, and finding no one at the door, walked in. Over in one corner she saw Tom in his cage, looking very harmless."

"He appeared so tame that the woman reached out to pet him. A lick as lightning, he had her by the shoulders and was squeezing her a death grip against the bars of the cage. He released his hold and she struggled loose, but he grabbed her hair jerking her up against the iron rods, and pulling out half her hair by the roots. His claws were long furrows in her face and scalp. In some way she managed to drop the ground out of his reach, and as she lay bleeding to death when the company came back. The woman's given the best medical aid probable, and she did not die, but her face was fearfully scarred with marks which will carry to her grave."

COLOARDO

Summer Tourists Low Rates

The various western lines are now announcing special low rates to Colorado points for the summer months. This presents a fine opportunity for visiting a picturesque and interesting portion of the United States. The low rates will afford a realization of the wonderful progress of the West in its commercial development and particularly in its railway service.

It was no longer ago than in the annals of the '60s that Colorado was first made a territory and its capital city was named for Gen. J. W. Moberly, a Kansas governor. It was not until 1876, that the first Chicago and North Western Line entered the city, and six years later, in the year of the centennial celebration, that Colorado was admitted to the Union.

Great changes have taken place since that time. Today Colorado is one of the brightest stars in the nation's galaxy, and thousands of visitors each year enter her borders as tourists or in pursuit of agricultural, mining or industrial opportunities. The commonwealth affords in its magnificent scenery, its climate, its passenger department of the Chicago & North Western railway and its summer tourist rate of $10 for the round trip from Chicago to Colorado points, and similar low rates from all points east.

The Union Pacific and Chicago & North Western railways maintain a daily train service between Chicago and Denver, only one night en route from Chicago and the central states and two nights from the Atlantic seaboard. The trains are equipped with buffet, smoking and dining cars, Pullman drawing room sleeping cars and free reclining chairs. Dining cars, meals a la carte, the best of everything.

Crosses Press: The saloonkeepers and restaurant proprietors are not the only beneficiaries of the day excursion, though those two classes of business men find them extremely profitable. The drug stores and candy stores, ice cream parlors, street railway, base ball station and horse and boat livery receive a large share of the excursionists' cash, and the bulk of this eventually finds its way to the merchants.

Retrospective

Why am I so miserable, this bright May day? The sun never shone more brightly, the birds never sang more sweetly and there's nothing in nature to mar one's peace of mind, and yet I am so unhappy. Since I attended the trial of Kathleen Spencer some terrible doom seems to have settled about me. How I pity her! To be tried as a coarse criminal and sentenced to the workhouse for thirty days must indeed be very humiliating. How terrible it is to be a slave to the habit of gambling—and she was so beautiful, too. I never saw a finer picture of despair. If I possessed the ability, I would paint her as she sat before that judge who seemed glad to pronounce the sentence upon her. What lovely brown eyes, and clear pink and white complexion, ruby lips and brown wavy hair. But it was the expression that fascinated me. Indifference, pride, defiance and covering all these that must be dreaded of all emotions—despair, was written on every feature.

She looks very much as her mother Mary Douglas, used to look when we were school mates and inseparable friends. Oh, those dear old days, when we hunted the blue violets that grew in the corners of the worm fence, and waded in the cool waters of the pebbly brook. Wasn't Mary Douglas a noble girl? Such a sincere friend, and how she loved me! I believe she would have given her life for me, and I would have done the same for her. That was a long time ago, when I wore my hair in braids, and she wore curls. Were there ever two other such cronies? I have never found another so true a friend, and this Kathleen is her only child. Let me see. She married Will Spencer, the September before the Christmas that I married John. Few friends keep up so close an intimacy as we did, after our marriages. Never an anniversary that we did not spend it together and Will and John became excellent friends. When her little girl came my John was six months old, Mary and I befriend her. "We will be the nobility and have them engaged while they are in baby dresses. And then we sat and talked and wondered how Mr. and Mrs. John Hare would sound. Oh, I can see my dear Mary now, as she sat under the spreading beech tree in our side yard, with her little dimpled, brown eyed smile on her lap. But I realize that Mary has been dead ten years, and it is six years since my little John left me to dwell for ever more in the bright land beyond the skies. I remember that I promised Mary that I would be a mother to Kathleen. She would be alone in the world—her father having died the previous winter. I did try to do my duty. I looked after Kathleen. I persuaded her to enter my Sabbath school class, but when I think of today I am convinced that I failed to keep my promise to Mary. If she had not possessed this passionate love for cards, all would have gone well with Kathleen. I remember the time she played her first game of cards. She had come over to see Aunt Fannie, as she called me. John and I were engaged in playing a game of cards. I urged her to play telling her she could be little John's partner. How well I remember the moisture in her eyes as she looked earnestly into mine and said: "Aunt Fannie, do you think mama would be pleased to have me play cards? Some way I felt rebuked, and said, "Your mama would want you to enjoy yourself, and I am sure you will enjoy yourself as the game is so fascinating."

"But Aunt Fannie, isn't there a blue verse which says, 'Abhor that which is evil?' Oh, Paul wrote those words for the benefit of the Jews, or Christians. I mean to say in early days, and don't let such things worry your beautiful head."

I noticed a sad smile about her mouth as she took her place at the table. With a little help from my boy she soon mastered the game and became an excellent player. At her suggestion we each contributed a certain amount with which to buy prizes for those who should win the game. This increased her interest and she rarely failed to win a prize. For more than a year our interest in card playing steadily increased, and then death came and took our boy, our only child. Cards had no attractions for us now. Kathleen found no pleasure in our company and we in our misery and grief forgot her. She sought more congenial society where not only cards but the flowing bowl was occasionally seen on the table where Kathleen met her new found friends. I haven't seen her for three years until today, when I accompanied a friend to the court house, and dropped in to hear a case in which she was interested. Imagine my surprise, when I heard the name Kathleen Spencer called.

At first I was frightened, for on seeing her face, I felt that Mary had come from her grave to haunt me. But why need she want to haunt me? Oh, Father, forgive me! Oh, Mary, how I have neglected your child! I not only neglected her, but I have dragged her from the path of innocence into the broad road that leads to destruction and death.

I see it all now. I know why I have been so miserable today; why peace has forsaken me. Why despair written on that beautiful face has clung to me like a nightmare. It was I who led her to engage her in that which has been her ruin. I, a Christian; a Sunday school teacher, have been instrumental in sending a lovely innocent girl to the darkness of despair. What can I do? Oh, what can I do? I remember that a great preacher once said in the pulpit that a ruined gambler would climb over a stack of bibles, as high as the heavens that he may have another chance to win a game and that a gambler will risk his soul when he has lost everything else. Oh, that I could undo the wrong I have done. Poor Kathleen! Poor Kathleen! What can I do to save you? I would give all I have to have her once more with moist eyes, saying: Aunt Fannie, do you think mama would like to have me play cards? I'll give my life in reclaiming her, and when I meet dear Mary Douglas on the other side may it be that the redeemed Kathleen will go hand in hand with me to receive the welcome that Mary will have for me, her life long friend, and for her only child.

Gave Providence Credit

At a recent dinner in Washington, says a New York Mail and Express writer, Capt. — of the United States navy told the following story about a certain shallow pate naval chaplain who was looked upon with scant respect by his brother officers. From travelling salesman the man had turned preacher and backed by influence, came to Washington in Mr. Cleveland's time to get a naval chaplaincy. When he was introduced at the white house, Mr. Cleveland looked him over in his grave and penetrating way and said:

"Mr. —, this is no case for favoritism; we want a man of merit and ability for this post." The applicant rejoined: "Mr. President, if it is God's will that I go into the navy, neither you nor anyone else can keep me out." The president eyed him for a moment and then said dryly: "Well, Mr. —, I'll do my part, anyway. Good morning." "The cream of the joke is," said the narrator, "that the fellow—who really did get into the navy later—told the story himself with all seriousness, adding: 'And as I left the room, I had a strong conviction that it was not the will of Providence that I should enter the navy at that time.'"

Better Than Champagne.

A good story is told of a St. Louis gentleman. A friend of his sent him a case of Red Raven Spits. It arrived while he was absent from home. His wife opened the box and seeing all the dainty bottles mistook it for champagne. She told her husband on his return that he had been presented with a case wine. He being a genial fellow went to the telephone and called a few friends. In the evening when they came to open the wine the mistake was of course discovered. A prominent physician who was among the guests broke into a cry of delight. "Why," he said, "this is providential. This beats champagne all to pieces. There is nothing that acts so gently on the liver, tones the stomach and gives a man such a feeling of health as Red Raven Spits. It is justly called the Prince of Aperients, and taken in the morning after a dinner or banquet will surely cleanse the system and put one right for the day's work." He pulled the cord and poured the sparkling water into a glass. "I do not think champagne could be more beautiful," he added, "or half as efficacious." They all agreed and each man took home a dainty bottle as a souvenir.

STORM SWEEPS THROUGH TOWN

Big Car Sheds at Twin Lakes, Wis.,
Destroyed by Gale.

Kenosha, Wis., May 13.—The most unusual storm ever known in this section of the state occurred at the village of Twin Lakes, when a fierce windstorm similar to a whirlwind swept through the center of the village, leaving a path of desolation and wreckage. The space swept by the storm was less than forty rods in diameter, but the havoc was tremendous. The large car sheds of the Lawler Ice company were wrecked and the slides were twisted like a rail fence. Just before the collapse of the sheds a crowd of men had left them to seek shelter from the storm.

GETS BACK $25,000 NECKLACE

Mrs. Hoyt's Gems Are Returned, but She Cuts Down the Reward.

New York, May 13.—Mrs. Colgate Hoyt's $25,000 pearl necklace, which was lost April 2, was returned to her by Miss Harriet Schade, who says she was paid $100 of the $500 reward offered for its return. Miss Schade is a young saleswoman in a department store and lives with her parents. She says she found the pearls three days after Mrs. Hoyt lost them.

Miss Schade was walking through Twenty-third street and saw something glittering in the gutter. She stopped and pulled the gems out of the mud. Some time later she took them to a jeweler and found they were of great value. When she saw an advertisement offering $500 for their return she took them to Mrs. Hoyt.

Our remedy will do this, and it is easy for you to prove its merits.

JANESVILLE TESTIMONY.

PRAIRIE AVENUE.

MILTON AVENUE.

SOUTH MAIN STREET.

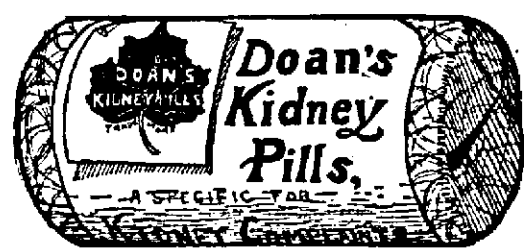

Mrs. N. J. Casey, of 109 Prairie ave., says "Doan's Kidney Pills proved better than any other medicine I took for my kidneys. These organs troubled me off and on for many years. Backache was the chief symptom and often caused me to suffer severely. I tried a number of remedies but continued to grow worse instead of better. I was finally persuaded to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at the People's Drug Store. I only took them a few days when I felt better. Should there be any recurrence of my trouble I know what to use."

Mr. E. Dillenbeck of 120 Milton avenue, retired farmer, says: "My wife was troubled with kidney complaint for four or five years and complained it pains in the small of the back in the region of the kidneys. The symptoms all indicated that the kidneys were deranged and the doctors who treated her said that those organs caused the disturbance. As she did not get any better we thought Doan's Kidney Pills might give her relief, on procuring them at the People's Drug Store, I had her use the remedy. I did for her all that could be expected. We can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and you can use our names as saying what has been stated above."

Mr. H. W. Rodgers, carpenter of 210 South Main street says "My wife had kidney complaint and rheumatism for five years suffering a great deal from pain across the loins. Doan's Kidney Pills, sold by the People's Drug Co., brought much longed for and gratifying results. First there was no visible change and she came to the conclusion that they were like all other remedies she had tried but finally the aching and the distress in the small of the back disappeared."
